Features an integrated digital tally counter. Electro-luminescent display shows time-of-day and date. Also includes alarm. View Virtual Catalog - English View Virtual Catalog - Spanish Sportline Stopwatches are a cheap and efficient way of taking timings at sporting events, as well as during training. Functions of the watch also include a clock and alarm setting. As with many stopwatches, the buttons to control the settings are deliberately limited to aid simplicity. If the hourly chime is set, then it can be difficult to work out how to turn it off. Using the right combination, however, it is possible to turn off the hourly chime on the stopwatch, which will enable the battery life to be conserved. Press the button on the right labeled "start/stop" and at the same time press the button on the left labeled "split/reset." Hold both of these buttons down to scroll through the functions. Release both buttons when the "Alarm Set" display is reached. This will show the time that the alarm is set for, even if the alarm is not active. Press and hold the "Mode" button, which will remove the bars shown under the days of the week. Wait until all of the bars have been removed. This will stop hourly chiming. Book a COVID-19 vaccine. I bought it for the alarm function. It is not very intuitive to set or use the alarm function. I got good value for the money.Helpful?December 13, 2015Instruction provide are useless and not available in more accurate form from sportline or other online sources. Suggest you select a different product with proper instructions. I wasted my money.Helpful?September 25, 2017This product actually does work. So why is it terrible? Why am I throwing it into the garbage? The modes/buttons are impossible to figure out! Yes, you could look it up in the instructions every time, and always keep the little folded leaflet with the stopwatch at all times....I will admit, I took it somewhere to use as a timer and neglected to bring the instructions. I had used the instructions to set it up and set the correct time and used it a few times and thought I could remember...But no. It took me forever to figure out what sequence of buttons to press to return it to stopwatch mode, and now it is somehow on a setting where it 'chirps' every hour, with no icon to indicate it...and I can't turn it off! It was beeping hourly in my hotel room, and I had to cover it with pillows. i couldn't just put it in the garbage as it would have then tortured or alarmed some other poor soul. I'm now going to remove the batteries (at least I got something) and dispose of it properly where it can do no more harm.Helpful?May 16, 2017Why dose it go off every 4 minutes, I'm here trying to sleep, wake up to an alarm I dident set, and I get up stop it walk away and somehow it just starts again, I go to the time feature and it's still going off, how to I turn this thing offHelpful?Customer Q&AGet specific details about this product from customers who own it. by TeresaFebruary 10, 20161 Answer1. Hello. In order to activate the unit when removed from the package, you will need to pull the battery insulator tab from the battery compartment or side of the timer.
